

*FLY ON
THE WALL
#20*

- Manisha Gera Baswani

*The breeze at dawn has secrets to tell you;
Don't go back to sleep...*

-Rumi

SHE

Ageless walls, quiet corners, looming shadows, speaking objects
She moves effortlessly in this incongruous maze of her own making
Creating symphonies that balm the soul of those around her.

She nurtures nature
Befriends friends
Dances to melody
Traverses unknown paths

She stands tall, reserved
Complete...within
Generous...without

On her canvas of life
She pours it out

Time gently holds her hands strong
Walk hand in hand, feet firm on the ground
Together they soar high
Kissing the skies

Vanita Gupta in front of her work at the India Art Fair 2017.

Photo - Essay

Benitha Percival installing her work during her solo show at Nature Morte, 2017.

Rohini Devasher at Kiran Nadar Museum of Art facing a projected image of K G Subramanyan's work.

Photo - Essay

Masooma Syed at Vadehra Art Gallery, 2010.

Kiyomi Talaulicar in her studio, 2017.